SECTION 1 · 25 POINTS

Listening: A Wrong Order and an Allergy

Teacher-read phone call · two times

Listen for the problem, evidence, health information, instruction, and promised solution.

Listening Script:

Agent: City Food Delivery. How can I help?

Customer: My order was delivered twenty minutes ago, but the wrong meal was sent. I ordered vegetable noodles without peanuts. This meal contains peanuts, and I am allergic to them.

Agent: I'm sorry. Have you eaten any of the food?

Customer: No, I haven't. I checked the label first. The restaurant told me to contact you.

Agent: Good. Please keep the food and take a photo of the label. A replacement can be delivered in about thirty minutes, or we can give you a full refund.

Customer: Did you say the replacement will arrive in thirty minutes?

Agent: Yes. I will also add an allergy warning to the new order.

Customer: Thank you. I would like the replacement, please.

Questions 1–5 5 points each

TEACHER EDITION

Reading: Hotel Service Follow-up

Your Room Change

Practical service email

Dear Mr. Santos,

We are writing about the room problem you reported last night. The heater in Room 214 could not be repaired, so a new room has been prepared for you on the third floor. Room 318 is next to the elevator and has already been checked by our manager.

Please collect the new key from the reception desk after breakfast. Bring your old key, but you do not need to move your bags alone. A staff member who works near your room can help you at 10:00. We have also removed last night's room-service charge from your bill.

We apologize for the inconvenience.

Questions 6–9 5 points each

TEACHER EDITION

6. Why was a new room prepared?

Because the heater in Room 214 could not be repaired.

7. Where is the new room?

On the third floor, next to the elevator; Room 318.

8. What should Mr. Santos bring to reception?

The old key.

9. Name two solutions the hotel has provided.

Any two: prepared a checked new room; offered help moving bags at 10:00; removed the room-service charge.

SECTION 3 · 20 POINTS

Writing: Explain a Service Problem

Question 10 Write a customer-service message

Your card was charged twice for a hotel booking. Write 70–90 words to customer support.

Include:

- what was charged and when;
- what you had done before you noticed the problem;
- what the hotel or bank told you;
- what evidence you have;
- the solution and time frame you want.

See the teacher model below.

Model Response:

TEACHER EDITION

Hello, my card was charged twice for booking 4821 yesterday. I had already paid online before I arrived at the hotel. The receptionist told me that only one payment appeared in their system. I have the booking email, hotel receipt, and two bank notifications. Could the second charge be refunded within five business days? Please confirm the next step. Thank you.

Writing criterion	Points	Teacher score
Completes the purpose and includes required details	8	____ / 8
Problem, evidence, and request are organized clearly	4	____ / 4
Target language supports meaning	4	____ / 4
Vocabulary, spelling, and punctuation are clear enough	4	____ / 4

Writing Scoring:

Reward the student's ability to document the problem and request a concrete resolution. Do not require every target structure when the message already communicates all five details.
